Farm Income Shows Record 10% Increase

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department today estimated per capita income of farmers in 1957 was a record $993, up 10 per cent from the $902 calculated for 1956.

This sharp per capita increase was accounted for almost wholly by a decrease in farm population. Preliminary estimates in the department's publication, "The Demand and Price Situation," show farmers' net realized income for 1957 totaled $11,500,000,000, down 4 per cent from 1956 net farm income. A substantial increase in inventories of commodities held on farms at the end of the year raised farmers' total net income for 1957 to $12,100,000,000.

The department said the decline in realized net income—cash money left after production expenses are paid—was more than had been anticipated previously. The record per capita income was figured by dividing the farm population of 20,390,000 (down from 22,257,000 in 1956; into a 10 per cent farm income, derived from both farm and non-farm sources, of $20,000,000.

This total income included $11,500,000,000 realized net income, 600 million dollars in inventory changes, $1,800,000,000 paid in wages to hired hands on farms, and $6,300,000,000 received by farm people from non-farm sources.

The realized net income included about one billion dollars in direct payments from the government. These payments were for participation in the soil bank, wool, agricultural conservation, and sugar programs.

The per capita income of farmers from farm sources only was $648, compared with $601 in 1956. The per capita income from non-farm sources was $345.

Pacific Storm Whips Across to Midwest

By UNITED PRESS

A Pacific storm that caused an estimated five million dollars damage in California whipped across the Plains into the Midwest today, its punch weakened but still windy and wet.

Clearing skies Tuesday and today eased the threat of further serious flooding in water-logged California, but authorities continued their watch along levees bordered by high waters.

The stormy system, which hit California Monday, pushed eastward Tuesday, drawing mild temperatures into the Midlands.

Record high temperatures were set at Fargo, N.D., which hit an all-time February high of 66 degrees, and at Minneapolis, where a 55-degree reading was a new high mark for the date.

The warm temperatures were carried into the Plains and upper Mississippi Valley on strong winds reaching gusts of 30 to 40 miles per hour.

5,000,000 Damage
A United Press count since last weekend showed at least 21 persons killed in floods or traffic accidents on rain-washed highways. There were 14 victims in Texas, 6 in California and 1 in Oregon.

The Sacramento River in California topped its levees Tuesday north of Hamilton City, but damage was confined to farmlands. The Plains and Midwest warm-ups melted and ice packs broke up touched off minor flooding as

Vote Slated on Extra Soil Bank Dollars

By UNITED PRESS

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House today scheduled a vote on providing 250 million dollars in extra soil bank funds this year to cover an unexpected flood of farmer applications in the program.

It voted 120-67 Tuesday to accept an amendment sponsored by Rep. Jamie L. Whitten (D-Miss.), chairman of an Agricultural Appropriations subcommittee.

The lawmakers also agreed to slap a $3,000 ceiling on total soil bank payments to any one individual or corporation under the acreage reserve section of the law.

Congress voted last year to provide 500 million dollars for the 1958 acreage reserve program, which is designed to reduce crop surpluses by paying farmers to take land out of production.

When far more farmers than expected signed up, the department put the program on a first come first-served basis. However, the House Appropriations Committee earmarked 175 million extra for the program in approving a $2,637,882,700 money bill to run several government agencies for the rest of this fiscal year.

But the House boosted the figure to 250 million dollars to make sure all the applicants are covered.

Leaders Shrug Off Foreign Aid Rally

WASHINGTON (UP)—Some Democratic congressional leaders today shrugged off as high pressure salesmanship President Eisenhower's giant bipartisan rally in support of foreign aid.

They said it won't change a single vote in Congress.

Foreign aid supporters were given another jolt by the State Department's disclosure Tuesday night that France used U.S.-made Corsair fighter planes provided under the Mutual Security Program in the bombing raid on a Tunisian village Feb. 8.

Informed sources said the United States government has warned France against the use of any further weapons provided under the program on Tunisian targets.

Mansfield: Too Much
Senate Assistant Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said the administration's call for spending nearly four billion dollars on economic and military assistance is "entirely too much."

"It can be cut substantially—at least 25 per cent," the Montana Democrat said.

Other key Democrats saw J. Edgar Hoover was ignoring political realities posed in asking Congress to commit the United States to vast expenditures abroad while the domestic economy is sagging and individual industries are being hurt by foreign trade and tariff policies.

The President climaxed a day-long talkathon Tuesday on selling his foreign aid plan to Americans by denouncing its opponents as "ostrich-like." He said the Mutual Security Program was just as "urgent" as mobilizing the ballistic missiles effort to keep peace in the world and resist Communist aggression.

Eisenhower declared the aid

Congressmen Speak for Foreign Aid

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Two United States Congressmen told a luncheon meeting Monday that the U.S. must increase its foreign aid program to prevent the Iron Curtain from moving westward.

Rep. A. S. J. Carnahan (D-Mo.) and Chester E. Merro (R-N.H.) spoke at a meeting of the Little Rock advertising club and other civic groups. The speaker ended a nation-wide tour made by the two Congressmen.

Some free foreign countries have more natural resources than can be developed by U.S. foreign aid, Carnahan said.

"We've got to increase that aid and develop those resources before the Soviet Union does," he added.

Merro said more of the countries which have gained their independence in the past 15 years have joined the free world than have joined the Communists.

Arkansas River Plans by 1972

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—A multi-purpose development of the Arkansas River will be completed by 1972, an Army officer told a local civic club Monday.

Lt. Col. Henry C. Whitting, the Corps of Engineers district executive officer, explained navigation, electrical power and flood control would be developed under the plan. He said the river would be navigable from the Mississippi River to Little Rock in 10 years if present plans are carried out.

Others Speak

The President's talk followed others by former President Truman, Adlai E. Stevenson and other Democratic and Republican speakers to the rostrum before about 1,300 leaders from across the nation.

Truman said Democrats in Congress will "never, never be able to explain it" if they "emasculate" the Republican administration's aid bill carrying on a program started by Democrats. He also threw another political jab at the Republicans.

Noting claims that the aid program is being administered badly, he said "It looks as if a lot of things are now being administered badly, but you can't abolish the government on that account."

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's rally to sell Americans on foreign aid received a cool shrug from some congressional Democratic leaders today. They said the President won't change any votes in Congress.

The President is asking "entirely too much" in his four billion dollar military and economic assistance program, Senate Assistant Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield (Mont.) said.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okl.) predicted that by nightfall the Senate will okay higher postal rates and pay raises for postal workers. He said there would be a big fight and a fairly close vote over his amendment to knock out a proposed five-cent stamp for out-of-town letters.

House investigators pressed White-side for more financial records to look further into his activities dealing with Federal Communications Commission decisions.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) of the FCC investigating subcommittee said if Whiteside failed to produce all the records asked in a subpoena he could be cited for contempt. Said Harris: "We ought to have all the records."

The new look in highways is here . . . designed for the future with durable, sound-conditioned concrete

Not a "thump" in a thousand miles . . .

New-type, sound-conditioned concrete for the Interstate System

Developed to meet the 1975 standards for America's greatest highway building program

Everything a good driver wants—new-type concrete has it! It's sound-conditioned. Laid continuously, this pavement has no joints . . . only tiny, almost invisible cushion spaces, sawed into the concrete. You skim over them and don't know it!

But there's more to new-type concrete. The surface won't roughen from the effects of freezing, thawing and de-icers. A special granular base keeps this pavement flat and solid. And new-type concrete has a life expectancy of 60 years plus.

First costs are moderate. Maintenance costs? Up to 60% less than for asphalt.

Extra safety is built in. Grumpy surface resists skids . . . and you see up to 4 times better on light-colored concrete than on a dark surface. Over 90% of America's most heavily traveled roads have been built of concrete. It's the preferred pavement for the new Interstate System of super-roads.

The Arkansas Highway Department has shared in the development of new-type, sound-conditioned concrete pavement. It is presently building Interstate Route 49 to these standards—the highest paying standards ever known to the road building industry and to the motoring public.

DOROTHY DIX

Couple Should Profit From Parents' Errors

Dear Dorothy Dix: Both my fiancée and I are children of broken homes. The failure of my parents to make a good marriage makes me determined to make a success of my own. The effect on my fiancée is just opposite. He says he's not ready to settle down, that he's afraid of life and is trying to beat it. That our parents' experiences should be a warning to us. How can I make him see things from a different angle? LULU

Dear Lulu: If by "beating life" your young man means attempting to escape the responsibilities and sorrows of life, he's trying the impossible. It can't be done. Every man's fate is written on his forehead, say the Arabs, and no one escapes. The experience of a broken home gives this warped view of life to many people. They see matrimony only as a place of strife and argument, they can't believe there is a love able to survive the strain of domestic life. Because your father and mother made a failure of marriage is absolutely no reason for you to follow in their footsteps.

Each marriage stands on its own feet, on the merits of the two people who made it, and their determination to make it a success. Divorces aren't hereditary, but until your fiancée sees this for himself and shares your desire to create a harmonious home, don't marry him.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband works from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. six days a week and my two little girls are in school all day, then go to Brownie meetings or something like that and I'm alone all day. I'd like to get something to do for the hours the girls are in school. Can you suggest some thing? ADRIE

Dear Adele: Have you considered selling products through home demonstration? You can sell a line of cosmetics, brushes, silverware or various other things at hours convenient to you. This will solve the loneliness angle, bring you in contact with nice people and add a little to the family income.

Dear Dorothy Dix: If I leave my apartment for any length of time my neighbor comes in and steals things. It does no good to have the lock changed as she says she can open any lock. She's been very sick and I took care of her. Is this a proper reward? AMELIA G.

Dear Amelia: I question the woman's statement that she can pick any lock. You get yourself a good one and she won't get in. Have you considered the fact that she might still be sick and takes things almost involuntarily? Keep your doors closed and your mind open. She may need friendship.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a housemaid in a wealthy home, and have fallen in love with my boss. I'm sure he loves me too, because he can't keep his eyes off me. How can I tell his wife how we feel about each other? BLUE EYES

Dear Blue-Eyes: If the wife has a temper they might become black-and-blue eyes. I'm quite sure my dear, that your boss has only a kindly interest in you and has no intention whatsoever of breaking up his home over you. If you must pine, better do it somewhere else before you cause trouble for yourself and your employers.

Another Missile Try Up in Flames

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)—A Navaho guided missile launched from Cape Canaveral nosedived spectacularly back to earth after a minute of flight today and exploded in a great ball of flame and smoke that resembled a small atomic blast.

The Navaho, a non-ballistic Air Force missile which is obsolete but has been used to test one of the nation's most promising rocket engines, evidently lost its power after barely a minute of flight and streaked straight down.

The missile apparently was destroyed an instant before it hit the ground but it landed with an earth-shaking whump. A tall column of black smoke mushroomed up at the impact site and hung over the cape for many minutes.

No one was believed to have been near the impact area, far out on the cape.

Burns Declared Mentally Ill

FORT SMITH (UP)—Booby Joe Burns, 30, who decapitated his mother Jan. 27 is mentally ill, the director of the state hospital wrote Sebastian County authorities.

Dr. Granville L. Jones, state hospital superintendent, said the institution's staff believes Burns is not legally sane. He said he asked that Burns be committed to the hospital for an indefinite period.

The body of Mrs. Edna Burns was found in the family home. Her head was discovered in a box in the immaculate Conception Roman Catholic Church.

Burns told police he killed her for religious reasons.

IMPROVING CENSORSHIP

PARIS (U)—Marlene Dietrich's noted legs have been censored in Paris subways. City Hall officials reported receiving complaints that posters advertising her latest movie showed too little skirt and too much leg. Today the legs had been covered with pastel-colored paper.

Ike, Truman Pull for Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (UP)—Bitterly fueling President Eisenhower and former President Truman go to bat today for the administration's $3,912,000,000 foreign aid bill.

But they won't appear in the same room together at the same time.

Truman speaks at a luncheon meeting of a conference of national leaders to plug the aid program and Eisenhower appears at a dinner. The big rally is designed to sell the American people on the program and offset some congressional opposition to lawmakers who do not want to spend money abroad in an election year if they can help it.

FCC Commissioner Richard A. Mack drew the fire of Rep. Morgan M. Moulder (D-Mo.), who resigned as chairman of the House investigation into federal regulatory agencies.

Moulder said Mack's reputed financial interest in an insurance firm holding the account of the National Airlines television station in Miami is "unquestionably a flagrant violation" of government regulations. Mack voted to give the airline the disputed Channel 10.

Another try at healing a party-line rift was attempted behind closed doors at the Senate Rackets Committee. The committee can't agree over the presentation of evidence in an investigation of the United Auto workers strike against the Kohler Co. of Wisconsin.

The dispute has held up the start of hearings which were to begin Monday.

Two auto makers backed a move in Congress to repeal the excise tax on cars. George Conney of American Motors Corp. and L. M. Colbert of Chrysler Corp. said repeal would give their industry a shot in the arm.

Other congressional news: Debt: The Senate passed and sent to the White House a temporary five billion dollar increase in the national debt limit. The new ceiling will be 280 billion dollars until June 30, 1959, as requested by the Eisenhower administration.

Guilty: Army Secretary Wilbur M. Brucker testified the Pentagon expects to achieve a 10-per cent reduction in the National Guard without discharging any guardsmen. He said the outbreak would be achieved gradually through

Fight Leaves Man Critically Hurt

HOT SPRINGS (UP)—A 47-year-old Benton man is in a critical condition in Ouachita General Hospital today as the result of injuries received in a fight with two other men earlier in the day.

He was listed as Fred Ray. Officers said they were holding Eddie Fitzgerald and Joe J. Howard, both of Hot Springs, on open charges pending the outcome of Ray's condition. They said the fight took place in front of a club on Central Avenue, and Ray was knocked down, hitting his head on the sidewalk. He suffered a fractured skull.

NAACP Suit to Be Heard Thurs.

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The suit of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People contesting constitutionality of the state Sovereignty Commission is to be argued Thursday before the federal district court.

The NAACP is asking for an injunction to prevent enforcement of the commission. Gov. Orval Faubus, members of the commission, and Puloski, Prosecuting Attorney Frank Holt are defendants.

The NAACP filed a memorandum opposing consolidation of the case with another suit filed by 10 Negro ministers to challenge four segregation laws passed by the 1957 legislature. The NAACP argued the two are different because of the facts of the cases and the legal theory behind them.

The Church of Sweden Assembly in Stockholm recently voted, 62 to 36, against the proposal to permit women to become ordained ministers.

Notice of the call for redemption shall be published by the Recorder once a week for two weeks in a newspaper published in the City of Little Rock, Arkansas having a general circulation throughout the State of Arkansas, giving the number and maturity of each bond being called, the first publication to be at least fifteen (15) days prior to the date fixed for redemption, each bond so called shall cease to bear interest, provided funds for its payment are on deposit with the paying Agent at that time.

CHAPTER XV

I asked her, "Are you the owner of the house?"
"All that the mortgage company doesn't own," she said, her small eyes growing cautious. "What's it to you, sonny?" She spoke pretty clearly without teeth. I didn't mind the "sonny." With a sport shirt and slacks on I did look like a big 15. "Can you tell me where I can find a Mrs. Kahn?"

"Martha Kahn she's been at peace six years now. You related?"
"Yeah, a distant cousin. I'm in New York for a few days with . . . our school basketball team. Thought I'd look the family up."

"And you didn't know Martha was dead why . . ." The over-aged mouth clamped down. "You from the California branch of the family?"

"No, ma'am, from the Michigan branch."
"That's good. When I bought this house from Martha just before she died, while she was so sick, I kept writing them in California to send someone here to look after the old woman. Not a peep out of them. But don't you know, soon as she died they had a lawyer here Johnny-on-the-spot claiming the estate. And them acting so snooty to Martha just because of that old trouble."

"You mean about Uncle Sal?"
"Indeed I do. Like I kept telling poor Martha, what that had to do with her I couldn't see. But those smug sisters of hers out in Los Angeles—well!"

"Of course Uncle Sal was before my time and I'm a distant relation, but I remember hearing about him. Went to jail, didn't he?"

"Died in the electric chair, he did!" the biddy said, her voice full of enjoyment at finding a new listener for old gossip. "Got himself in trouble during Prohibition, but then everybody was making bootleg booze. You can bet I used my tub for something besides taking a bath. Sal was just unlucky, got himself mixed up with gangsters, had to kill one."
"Did you know Uncle Sal?"

"ME I did not. Martha didn't buy this house till many years after her son died. But she told me lots about him, always good to his mother, a fine son."
"I'm not up much on this line of the family. Are there any other members around here?"
"They all in California, well-off I hear, but wouldn't ever send Martha a Christmas card or nothing, on account of Sal's trouble. She never told me of any family in . . . where did you say?"

"Michigan. Mother was some kind of cousin to Mr. Kahn's brother-in-law. Pretty complicated. Was Uncle Sal her only child?"

"Sure was. Poor Martha, husband dead, son dead, and her sick and alone and those snooty relatives out there in the sunshine never sending her a card. You can bet she always remembered them with cards. Wasn't for the money she got, she'd have starved."

"If she owned this fine house she must have been comfortable."
"Yes! First of every month, regular as the calendar, there was a registered letter with two hundred dollars—always twenty-dollar bills. I know. The last few months when the poor woman was confined to her bed and only
